

Featured Speakers & Panelists:

Raymond Austin (Justice Emeritus Navajo Nation Supreme Court); Robert Miller (Professor of Law at ASU); Joseph Austin (Attorney & CEO of OSA); Adam Crepelle (Professor of Law at SULC); Stacy Leeds (Dean Emeritus of U. Ark. School of Law); Bailey Walker (President of Okla. Indian Chamber of Commerce); Annetta Abbott (Former President Okla. Indian Chamber of Commerce); Boyd Miller (Former President Okla. Indian Chamber of Commerce); Marc Roark (Professor of Law); Rebecca Naragon (Econ. Dev. Director, USET)

Conference Dates: March 13-15, 2019

Hosted by the Coushatta Tribe of Louisiana & Southern University Law Center at the Coushatta Pavilion in Kinder, Louisiana

The 2nd annual All Roads Lead to Chaco Conference is focused on creating business opportunities and trade partnerships in Indian Country. Despite the large land masses of Indian reservations and the accompanying incentives such as the HUB Zone program, private entrepreneurs are often hesitant to invest in Indian Country. This conference will help business people understand the legal framework surrounding tribes and show them how to navigate the intricacies of doing business in Indian country. Further, it will suggest strategies that tribal leaders can use to make their reservations more attractive for private businesses. Leading experts will present on the following topics:

- Historic Tribal Trade and Economic Practices • Nation Building • Creating Private Sector Economies on Reservations
- Removing Barriers to Entrepreneurship in Indian Country • Inter-Tribal Trade • Tribal-State Economic Partnerships
- Business Transactions and Enforcing Contracts in Indian Country • Tribes and Foreign Trade

Sponsors

EDA University Center for Economic Development Southern University, BR

Olea, Solórzano & Austin

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY
LAW CENTER

Conference Registration Website:
TBA
For More Information Contact:
Adam Crepelle
acrepelle@sulc.edu

